In Chicago, a white police officer shoots and kills black 12-year-old Jerome, mistaking a toy gun he is playing with for a real one. As a ghost, young Jerome sees what happens after his death, including scenes with his family, the police and the media. Jerome goes on to meet another ghost, that of the real life figure Emmett Till: a black boy whom himself was murdered in 1955. Till shows Jerome that hundreds of other "ghost boys" just like them are left to roam the streets of America.. This is a beautiful and tragic book that is unfortunately very necessary right now.
